

Study Abroad or Co-Op Learning Contract

Gemstone encourages students to enrich their academic experience while at the University by studying abroad and/or participating in a co-op opportunity. Because of the nature of team research, there times that are more appropriate for students to take advantage of such opportunities.

The following are your responsibilities to assure that you earn the Gemstone Citation. Failure to comply with the restrictions below can result in not earning the Gemstone Citation. Please carefully review the following:

- You may study abroad or co-op spring of sophomore year or either semester of junior year
- You are not permitted to study abroad or co-op
  - until you have completed GEMS 202 in the fall semester of the sophomore year
  - during spring semester of senior year when writing the team thesis and participating in the Team Thesis Conference is mandatory
  - for more than one semester but it can be combined with a summer and/or a winter term in order to extend the stay.
- The Gemstone Program should be aware of your intention to study abroad or co-op. You must complete a Learning Contract with your team and mentor ONE SEMESTER PRIOR to your planned time away.
- You should submit your learning contract to the Gemstone Associate Director for approval at least one month before the end of classes. If the Gemstone Program has concerns about the contract, you must have enough time to address the concerns BEFORE you leave for the semester.
- If you leave without an APPROVED contract, you may not receive the Gemstone Citation.
- An approved contract has to be turned in before you leave with all signatures, grading criteria specified, and activities that reflect how you will contribute significantly to the ongoing work of the team.
- You should make sure that you register for the missed Gemstone research seminar listed under the Gemstone Associate Director's name when you return to campus. There are special sections of GEMS 297, GEMS 396, and GEMS 397 that you should add to your schedule by the schedule adjustment deadline.

This contract should be completed as an agreement with your mentor and team. This contract is about fairness to the WHOLE team.
